

Dirk Vordermark, Prof. Dr. med.

*05.07.1969, male^[SEP]

Martin Luther University Halle-Wittenberg (MLU)

Dept. of Radiation Oncology

Ernst-Grube-Str. 40, 06120 Halle (Saale)

Phone: +49-345-557-4310^[SEP]

Email: dirk.vordermark@uk-halle.de current position: Professor (W3)

Scientific career

Study

- 1990-1996, Medical School at University of Lübeck and University of Ulm, Germany (Internships in Zürich / Switzerland, Kingston, Ontario / Canada and Pretoria / South Africa)
- 1997, Dr. med. (title of thesis „ Bradykinin metabolism on bovine tracheal epithelium“, Dept. of Pharmacology, University of Lübeck; summa cum laude)

Professional Career

- 1996-2000, residency in radiation oncology at University of Würzburg, Dept. of Radiation Oncology
- 2001, one-year post-doctoral fellowship at Stanford University, Division of Radiation and Cancer Biology (Lab of Prof. J. Martin Brown); experimental research in the field of tumor hypoxia
- 2002-2003, completion of residency at University of Würzburg, Dept. of Radiation Oncology; board certification as radiation oncologist, subsequently staff radiation oncologist (“Oberarzt”) and researcher at University of Würzburg
- 11/2004, “Habilitation” (equivalent PhD, Radiation Oncology), Title: “Influence of acute and chronic hypoxia on the radiation resistance of human tumor cells: investigations using HIF-1-dependent endogenous hypoxia markers“
- since 2008, Full professor and Chairman, Dept. of Radiation Oncology, Martin-Luther-University Halle-Wittenberg, Germany
- 2012-2018, Dean of Research, Medical Faculty (2013-2018, Vice Dean of Medical Faculty)
- since 2022, Dean of Structure and Strategic Development (Vice Dean of Medical Faculty)